EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

It was a transition phase for me, wherein I was just then trying to tread on teen-age from tween-age. And it was the moment, rather melancholic, when I lost my mother to massive cardiac arrest. Though a total tyro in culinary terrains, ineluctably, I had to take over the task of tackling the kitchen chores, as I was relatively better acquainted in that arena than all others at home. Now, if having to churn up some delicious food was a challenge, cramming down the same, cooked by me, was a greater challenge! Naturally, in such a scenario, even a cup of hot beverage being offered to me by somebody used to feel like a blissful luxury.

During such turbulent times, what turned out to be true bonanza was the thoughtful gestures of two of our neighbours, who took tonnes of pain in trying to send us veritable tongue-titillating meals during all mega festivals. More than their astounding act, it was their amazing, caring attitude that gave us abundant comfort, especially during those angst-filled moments. Their immense love, inordinate compassion and incredible concern for us are all indelibly imprinted in my heart even today.

Incidentally, there are a few such folks, with phenomenal gusto, who are perpetually on their prime agenda, picking up possible opportunities to proffer succour to people around them with their personal services whenever needed.

My spouse's maternal cousin, Jayanthi, is one such. When my mother-in-law was undergoing major heart surgery, she made it her mission to be with us all through that one long month. And, on that forbidding and mentally-fatiguing night, following my father-in-law's demise, she was fast enough to fix up some food for our entire family. Her gestures were indeed mind-elevating, even more so during such morbid moments.

Not just at sombre times alone, even during joyous occasions, such as big weddings, Jayanthi, being full of beans and brio, would ever be busy, bustling around, helping the host, in handling a barrage of sundry tasks.

In our busy workaday lifestyle, wherein we are woefully incarcerated in our own worlds, these kinds of wondrous gestures indeed warm up anyone's heart. And yes, sincere, scintillating gestures do speak louder than slick, silver-tongued words. —Meera Seshadri in Deccan Herald

Mom unable to bear her kids' laughter

London: An English woman suffering from a rare condition known as painful hyperacusis says that everyday noises, such as her children's laughter, her friends' voices, and even music cause her paralysing pain.

Karen Cook worked as a cabin crew and lived a perfect normal life with her husband and their two boys. But then she started experiencing something strange and painful. Karen started experiencing the disorder in 2022 when her hyperacusis suddenly set in. All of a sudden, sound became torture for her. The voices of loved ones, chatting with friends, or listening to her favourite music caused her unbearable headaches to the point where she began to isolate herself just to make them stop.

She now spends most of her time indoors, because she can't handle all the noise of the outside world, and even when she is home alone, she wears earplugs and noise blockers to protect herself.

The world's most dangerous road

Bayburt: Stretching 65 miles (105 km) between the towns of Of and Bayburt in Eastern Turkey, the D915 is an extreme road regarded by many motorists as the most difficult in the world.

For years, Bolivia's Yungas Road, aka the "Death Road", held the unofficial title of world's most dangerous road. Photos and videos of motorists navigating through the Cordillera Oriental mountain range to an altitude of 4,650 mts have made Yungas one of the most popular tourist attractions. According to some adventurers, there is one less popular road that surpasses the Death Road in terms of difficulty. Linking Turkey's Northeast Anatolia Province to Black Sea, the D915 road features myriad turns and dangerous drop-offs that make it extremely perilous to traverse even for the most skilled drivers.

- Tortoises have shells for protection and they can withdraw inside their shells to hide from predators. Unlike some other armoured species like armadillos, the shell of a tortoise is actually part of its bone structure. This is why tortoises cannot leave their shells!

The tortoise's shell can also protect it from other threats and the colour of the shell of a tortoise determines its species. Frequent power cuts in rural areas of Mysuru

Sir,

This is to highlight the recurring issue of frequent power cuts in our locality encompassing Devalapura, Chikkegowdana Hundi and surrounding villages. Over the past month and a half, there has been a consistent disruption in power supply. Initially, we presumed these interruptions might be due to maintenance. However, the problem persists.

Notably, these power outages frequently coincide with festive occasions, exacerbating the inconvenience. On contacting the CESC helpdesk, we are informed that power restoration is unlikely until 6 pm.

We urge CESC to take prompt measures to address these recurrent power cuts. Such disruptions inconvenience students and professionals who rely on uninterrupted power, particularly those engaged in remote work.

Jayaprakash Hegde Panel submits caste census report to State Govt.

Bengaluru, Mar. 1- After months of dithering and political speculation, the Karnataka State Commission for Backward Classes, led by its Chairman K. Jayaprakash Hegde, finally submitted the Socio-Economic and Education Survey report, commonly called 'caste census,' to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah in sealed boxes in Bengaluru on yesterday afternoon.

Commission Chairman Jayaprakash Hegde and members met the Chief Minister and submitted the report in the presence of Home Minister Dr. G. Parameshwar and Kannada and Culture Minister Shivaraj Tangadagi.

By accepting the report, Siddaramaiah seems to be sending out a message to the supporters of caste census, especially the backward classes and dalits.

After receiving the report, Siddaramaiah said the report will be placed in the next Cabinet for further discussions. "Once the report is discussed in the Cabinet, it may be placed before the Legislature. As of now, without studying the voluminous report, it will be difficult to react on the issue", he said.

After submitting the report, Hegde told reporters that the report has included all communities that were left out. The CM has said the report will be placed in the next Cabinet meeting, he added.

Meanwhile, sources said that the report has several volumes dealing with caste wise social, economic and educational information. The report also contains taluk wise and Assembly Constituency wise population numbers. It also includes recommendations made by the Commission for the purpose of reservation in education and public employment, besides targeted schemes for communities that remain backward. The Commission has also recommended classifications for castes based on the socio, economic and educational status of communities, the sources added.

HC to hear plea today

Meanwhile, the Karnataka High Court (HC) is scheduled to hear the interlocutory plea that has sought a direction to the State Government not to make public the caste census report today.

O.K. Raghu, a Holenarasipur-based Advocate had filed the interlocutory plea seeking quashing of the petition filed by Dr. 'Mukhyamantri Chandru,' who had sought release of the caste census report in 2021. Raghu had maintained that the Jayaprakash Hegde led Commission was giving the report in haste on the last day of its term. He also contended that the Hegde Commission was merely submitting the report prepared by the previous commission.

The HC is scheduled to hear Advocate Raghu's petition today.

Bengaluru-based Samaja Samparka Vedike has filed another petition in the HC praying the Court to direct the Government against taking action or decisions regarding the caste census report. This petition too is expected to come up for hearing shortly, it is learnt.

Rowdy-sheeters paraded

These parades serve as a precautionary measure aimed at dissuading individuals with a history of disruptive behaviour from engaging in activities that could potentially disturb the peaceful conduct of the elections. Senior Police officials have issued warnings to individuals against participating in any unlawful activities and have stressed the importance of maintaining peace throughout the electoral process.

All Police Stations falling under the jurisdiction of a specific Sub-Division participated in the parade. According to sources, each Sub-Division reportedly houses over 200 individuals with a history of involvement in criminal activities, commonly referred to as 'rowdy-sheeters', and each of them has a corresponding 'mob card' maintained at their respective Police Station.

The Vijayanagar Sub-Division sleuths organised the parade at Hebbal Police Station premises, while the Krishnaraja Sub-Division conducted theirs at Vidyaranyapuram Police Station. The Devaraja Sub-Division held the parade at P. Kalinga Rao Hall located within the Exhibition Grounds, and the Narasimharaja Sub-Division conducted their parade at the Jail Grounds situated on Ashoka Road.

The parades were addressed by Assistant Commissioners of Police of Sub-Divisions and warned individuals not to indulge in any illegal activities during sensitive situations, particularly in the lead-up to elections. Officers discouraged them from engaging in any activities that could disrupt the peaceful conduct of elections, such as violence, intimidation, or rigging.

The ACPs reiterated the potential consequences of any disruptive behaviour they might attempt and reassured the public about the Police's commitment to maintaining law and order during the elections.

Several rowdy-sheeters have approached the Police, stating that they were declared rowdies years ago but have since reformed and are no longer involved in criminal activities. Moreover, many of them are now over 60 years old and leading respectable lives. They have requested the Police to consider removing their names from the rowdy list.

Furthermore, the Police have noted that several individuals previously declared as rowdies have relocated out of Mysuru, prompting the need for their names to be removed from the list. Additionally, it has been observed that the names of individuals who have recently engaged in criminal activities and are not currently on the list need to be updated accordingly.

In light of these developments, the Police have advised these individuals to avail themselves of various government facilities in leading respectable lives.

C.D. Gangadhar appointed as MySugar Chairman

Mandya, Mar. 1 (VNS)- The

C.D. Gangadhar

State Government on Thursday appointed District Congress Committee President C.D. Gangadhar as the Chairman of the State-owned Mysore Sugar Company Limited (MySugar). Following this, hectic lobbying for District Congress Committee President's post has begun.

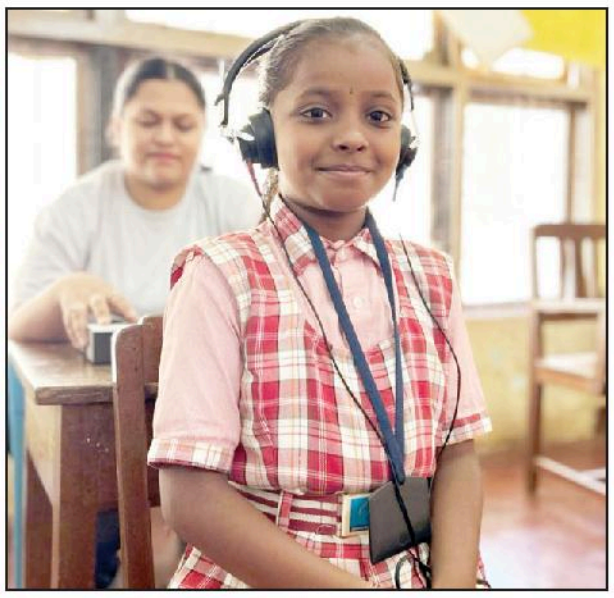
The post of MySugar Chairman being equivalent to Cabinet ranking, had many aspirants to the coveted post. However, Chief Minister Siddramaiah finalised on Gangadhar, who has served as the District Congress Committee President for a long term. His name for MySugar was also recommended by Agriculture and District In-charge Minister N. Cheluvarayaswamy.

However, State Government which announced the Chairman for MySugar, is yet to make appointment to Mandya Urban Development Authority (MUDA). Though it was expected that the Chairman to MUDA would be named along with the other boards, authorities and corporations, sources said that the appointment to MUDA had been withheld for reasons best known to the State Government.

With prominent Vokkaliga leaders Srirangapatna MLA Ramesh Babu Bandisiddegowda and C.D. Gangadhar appointed as Chairmen to Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) Limited and MySugar respectively, it is expected that a leader from minority community would be appointed as MUDA Chairman. If sources are to be believed, former MUDA Chairman Asadullah Khan, a close associate of Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, is in the race to be re-appointed as MUDA Chairman.

Apart from hectic lobby for District Congress Committee President's post, the local Congress leaders have also been insisting the party leadership to appoint them as Directors and Presidents to local bodies and Co-operative Banks.

Hearing health screening for 1,200 school children



Mysuru, Mar. 1 (BCT)- All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH), Mysuru conducted an initiative yesterday where over 1,200 school children underwent hearing screening within an eight-hour timeframe. As part of World Hearing Day, observed on Mar. 3, screening camps were set up in numerous Government schools across the city.

The initiative was held with the support from the World Health Organisation (WHO) and the Department of Public Instructions. The theme for World Hearing Day-2024 — "Let's make ear and hearing care a reality for all!" — highlights the importance of ensuring universal access to hearing care services.

The event saw simultaneous screening of primary schoolchildren across four locations: Govt Higher Primary School, Kuvempunagar; Govt High School RMSA, Kanakagiri; Manasagangothri School, Manasagangothri; and AIISH campus, Manasagangothri, Mysuru.

The screening initiative aimed to address societal misconceptions and stigmatising mindsets surrounding hearing issues while promoting early intervention. Audiologists conducting the screenings identified that 18 percent of the children had ear and hearing-related issues. Subsequently, hearing aids were prescribed for these individuals and free medicines were dis tributed to ensure they received comprehensive care.

Tashi Tobgay, Regional Advisor for Disabilities and Rehabilitation South East Asia Region-WHO, expressed WHO's interest in collaborating with AIISH as a centre for hearing health. Raju C.N., the Block Education Officer (BEO), South Zone in Mysuru, commended AIISH for its invaluable service.

Dr. M. Pushpavathi, Director of AIISH, who presided over the event, emphasised the importance of safeguarding hearing health and advocated for safe listening levels, particularly when listening to music.

Prof. B.K. Jagadeesh, President of Manasagangothri Educational Institutes, Mysuru and Shreekantaswamy M.B., Block Resource Coordinator for the South Zone in Mysuru, were the chief guests. Prof. U. Ajith Kumar, M. Sandeep and Dr. Saransh Jain were Programme Coordinators and played crucial roles in organising the event, as stated in a note from AIISH.

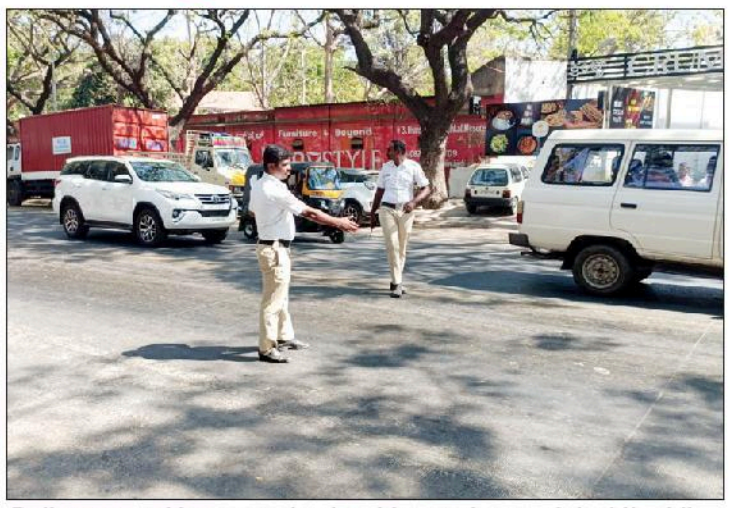
Over 30 bikers skid after leakage from oil tanker



Policemen asking two-wheeler riders to be careful while riding near Bamboo Bazaar this morning.

Mysuru, Mar. 1 (BLU&BCT)- Several two-wheeler riders experienced skidding incidents on New Sayyaji Rao Road near Bamboo Bazaar this morning due to oil spillage from a tanker. Eyewitnesses and Police officials attributed the spill to a leakage in the tanker that was traversing the road earlier in the morning.

Reports indicate that over 30 riders, travelling at speed near a couple of hotels near Bamboo Bazaar, skidded and fell from their vehicles, unaware of the oil spill. The spillage covered a 500-metre stretch. Although the nature of the oil remains unclear, passersby and local businessmen noted a peculiar smell emanating from it.

Despite the slippery conditions, vehicular traffic persisted on the affected road segment. "Numerous individuals slipped due to the oil spill and many two-wheeler riders sustained injuries. This incident occurred during peak morning traffic hours and only four-wheelers could proceed smoothly," remarked a bystander.

Witnesses observed many motorcycle riders retrieving broken pieces of their bikes' rearview mirrors and lights post-accident.

While Police confirmed several riders losing balance, fortunately, no serious injuries have been reported. Promptly, a couple of Policemen arrived at the scene to manage the situation and were alerting the two-wheeler riders about the oil spill, asking them to ride cautiously.

The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Control Room and officials were promptly notified about the oil spill and instructed to spread sand and mud on the affected stretch to mitigate slippery conditions and prevent accidents. However, both Police and bystanders noted a delay in the MCC's response.

Science stream has the highest number of students (13,982), followed by Commerce (10,679) and Arts (6,967). Question papers were dispatched from District headquarters to the centres through 10 specified routes under the guidance of the DC.

Ban orders were enforced within a 200-metre radius around all exam centres on all exam dates and photocopy shops near the centres have been instructed to remain closed. Adequate Police personnel were deployed to ensure the exam proceeds without any disruptions.

There was tight Police security as the question papers were moved in GPS-fitted vehicles from the District headquarters to various exam centres and Taluk headquarters early this morning and they were videographed.

The vans were asked to reach the designated places without stopping anywhere before the questions papers reach the examination centres. Students reached the centres 45 minutes before the examinations commenced and many were seen being accompanied by their parents or other family members. Parents were seen giving last-minute tips to their wards and instilling confidence in them at the centres ahead of the exam.

Flying squads with the DDPUE, Principals, Tahsildars and Block Education Officers (BEOs) heading each squad are moving from centre to centre to check for malpractices or any untoward incidents. However, no such incidents were reported at any centres today.

Sexual health

First it was physical health, encompassing fitness and diet. Then we moved to mental health, both preventive and curative. And now, it's the dawning of the next era, that of sexual health.

So what is sexual health all about? It includes sexual orientation (heterosexual, bisexual, gay and lesbian, asexual), gender identity (also gender at birth and gender expression) and nature of romantic/ sexual relationships (monogamy, non-monogamy, polyamory). Add to this, sexual hygiene (intimate hygiene behaviours engaged in before, during and after sex), sexual dysfunctions and other behaviours (that gratify our sexual needs).

With sexual health, the 'don't ask - don't tell' game is played out between therapists and clients. It's the huge elephant in the therapy room that clients don't want to acknowledge. So I figured out, best to address it in the very first session itself by including in the first-intake-form questions regarding gender and sexuality. Much required pieces of information to fix our client's context and help with case conceptualisation. We follow the PLISSIT model (an acronym for Permission, Limited Information, Specific Suggestion and Intensive Therapy) when it comes to talking sex in therapy. So questions asked in the form are with regard to sexual orientation, gender identity, frequency of sex and sexual dysfunctions if any (and diagnosis/ medication details as the case may be).

To date I haven't had a client who has refused to answer the questions pertaining to their gender and sexuality in the form. In fact it comes as a relief to many when an early check-in about the same is done for it makes so much easier to speak more about the same in the session itself or thereafter.

Strange, how conditioned we are, to not talk about money and sex in spite of both playing a significant role in our overall wellness. Money and mental health let's keep for another day and focus on just sex today.

Clients also come in specifically to address sexual health issues — couples (same sex or opposite sex), individuals and even families. Families when it involves children or even a parent coming out about their sexual orientation or gender identity and when parents want professional input on how to deal with their children and their masturbation habits and pornography addiction, for instance.

As for male sexual dysfunctions, when urologists are of the medical opinion that it has nothing to do with between their thighs, then they recommend therapy to deal with that which is between their ears. Ranging from masturbation and pornography addictions to ED and ejaculatory issues (early or delayed). Moreso when it has begun to impact their relationships and mental state of being.

And as for women, sex therapy is offered to not only cope with fertility treatments, inability to have orgasms and a general lack of interest in sex (perimenopausal, menopausal women for example) among many such issues.

What we need to bear in mind is how entwined sexual health is with emotional well-being and its ability to impact every day functioning, affect levels of self-confidence and even lead to mood disorders. Not to forget sexual health issues that stem from diseases, illnesses (of body and mind) and side-effects of medication (like that for hypertension and diabetes) — all of which can give rise to anger, shame, guilt (STIs and STDs), sadness and even fear.

Sex is not for reproduction alone. It plays a significant role in bringing fun, spontaneity and the child in us. Don't forget we can also get our free daily dose of endorphins, dopamine and oxytocin by indulging in an activity of sexual pleasure. Why then struggle in silence (because we are embarrassed to speak about it) when we can get professional help to redress the situation?

A clarification

Hon. Doctorate for former Minister M.R. Seetharam

Seetharam. However, an official announcement from University of Mysore Vice-Chancellor Prof. N.K. Lokanath says that it is former Minister M.R. AIDSO stages protest, demands cancellation of four-year degree course under NEP

Mysuru, Mar. 1 (GA&TRR)- Members of All India Democratic Students Organisation (AIDSO) staged a protest in front of Crawford Hall, University of Mysore(UOM) yesterday, demanding the cancellation of undemocratic four-year degree course which was introduced in the State under National Education Policy (NEP).

"The previous BJP led State Government hastily implemented the NEP-2020 in the State without any preparations. It undemocratically imposed the four-year degree course which was part of the NEP and harmed the future of the students," alleged the AIDSO activists.

Stating that AIDSO had strongly protested against implementation of NEP across the State, they said that more than 36,000 members of AIDSO have collected over 36 lakh student signatures from every corner of the State who have voiced their opposition to NEP.

"NEP has been pushed back from the State because of these strong protests. Now the State Government has formed a committee to formulate a new State Education Policy (SEP). Demanding the implementation of a pro-people SEP, AIDSO contacted 23,000 students and conducted a survey where 83% of the respondents have opposed the four-year degree course," added the AIDSO activists.

Expressing their concern about the statement of the committee that it will submit its final report in August this year, they pointed out that the State Government has not taken a clear stand about withdrawing the four-year degree course. This delay by the Government has pushed the future of the students into a dilemma as the students who are entering the 6th semester are unsure whether it is their final year or they have study for one more year. There is no clarity for students whose third year degree course will end in the next 2-3 months and they are worried about their future," said the protesters and demanded that the Government must not delay further in taking a firm decision.

AIDSO District President Subhash, Secretary Chandrakala, Vice-Presidents Nitin, Swati, AIDSO members Chandana,Chandrika, Hemalata, Anjali and hundreds of students from Maharaja's and Maharani colleges participated in the protest.

WORD OF THE DAY

Denouement

Pronunciation: day-noo-mohn (Noun)
Meaning: The final outcome of the main dramatic complication in a literary work. It also means the outcome of a complex sequence of events
Origin: French dénouement, literally, untying, from Middle French desnouement, from desnouer to untie, from Old French desnoer, from des- de- + noer to tie, from Latin nodare, from nodus knot.
Example: There is no realistic prospect in the near term of a dramatic, uplifting denouement to the conflict that validates each side's sacrifices and provides relief and hope for the future. —Aaron David Miller, Foreign Affairs, 22 Dec. 2023

Tearjerker

Meaning: Tearjerker means: a sad movie, story, song, poem etc. that moves or is intended to move its audience to feel sorrow or empathy.

March 3, 1949 - March 1, 2022
In loving memory of a soul so rare, A husband and a father beyond compare. He walked this earth with gentle grace, And a tender smile upon his face.
Guided us through both calm and storm, A pillar of strength, yet soft as dawn, Of the love he gave, the life he lived, In our hearts, his legacy is sieved.
In whispers of wind, in the rustle of leaves, In silent moments, our spirit grieves. A tribute to the soul, who was our guide, our light, In loving memory, ever bright.
Loving Wife, Children, Grandchildren, Family and Friends
